

This 2010 female snow has beautiful head and blotch colors that are still saturating with maturity. I do not think she is a paradox snow, as she has some possible het traits that may explain some of the beautiful (but atypical) head coloration. Her parents are two Anery corns from the pairing by Nancy Wimer of an Anery Motley x Charcoal. Hence, this female is possible het Charcoal and Motley.