This 50" long adult female corn snake is the result of pairing a Butter Corn with an Ultramel Motley Corn. She is therefore het for at least Motley, Caramel, and either Ultra or Amel. Of course, she loves eating frozen/thawed adult mice.

Her $100.00 price (which includes FedEx overnight delivery to any of the lower 48 United States) reflects her least favorable asset. She is downright mean. She has bitten me before, but since that is relatively uncommon behavior for her, what bothers me even more than that is her intolerance for being held. She squirms and wriggles until I put her down.

Suffice to say, if you want her for making lots of baby corns, she's a bargain, but if you are looking for a snake that loves to be handled, pass this one up.
