This 2015 female Motley is currently 21" long, eating frozen/thawed small fuzzy mice. Her parents were both het for Striped Sunkissed, so she has that genetic potential. Her $125.00 USD price includes BTW, while this snake does appear to be a Hypo mutant, I don't believe she is? We know that even though I have never infused Hypo A into this line, it could still be there, but I'm guessing that the pale and virtually melanin-less expression could be a marker for being het Sunkissed?
