

The inherent value of the Blizzard Palmetto is that if you breed one to a Palmetto that is het for Blizzard (Amel and Charcoal), other than common corns, you can get Palmettos, Amel Palmettos, Charcoal Palmettos and Blizzard Palmettos, but I still prefer the classic Palmetto over mutation compounds. These faint yellow color freckles are only a token expression of yellow, compared to the color expectation we imagine in Butter Palmettos. Hopefully, in 2015 we will hatch Caramel Palmettos and Butter Palmettos. The freckling of the Butter Palmettos should be at least twice as yellow as the freckles on this sub-adult Blizzard Palmetto. Fingers crossed.