

This 2018 male is the progeny of a Specter corn snake bred to a white-on-white Snow. I think he demonstrates that the Specter I'm using (owned by Catherine Turley) is actually a Heliconia? I hope he holds the black markings. The markings on most male RedFactor Anery-types usually turn from black to brown with age, but most females barely convert any of their black markings to brown.