

When I was staging this Scaleless Corn Snake for a photograph, I noted the “air bubble” a little behind her head, between skin generations—denoting that she was about to slough her old skin. After shooting her individually, I decided to shoot a Scaleless Tessera with her, going for the “twofur” (two snakes in the same SOTD feature).