

This 2014 female Charcoal Terrazzo now 16" long, eating frozen/thawed pinky mice. While her eyes look a little "buggy", it's not an uncommon look in such a slender mutant as Terrazzo. Also, the absence of facial color and markings-which are elemental in disguising the size and location of a snake's eye-renders a super-ocular appearance.

Same snake in different light and pose.