#021013

Caramel (that may actually be an Amber)

Female

d.o.h. 2010

46" long on Feb. 10, 2013

$175.00 shipped

This 2010 female Caramel may also be hypomelanistic (therefore Amber). I never checked her sloughed skin for melanin because it didn't matter to me if she was Amber or Caramel, but she's very pale for a classic Caramel, if not a rather dark Amber? She laid 18 eggs last year. She was brumated on October 10th, 2012, and emerged on Feb. 7, 2013 so she has had an amply cold and long brumation.
