ToDAY's SNAKE of the DAY (Wed., Feb. 20, 2013)

#022013

Tessera from Tessera parents

Female

d.o.h. 2010

34" long on Feb. 20, 2013

$475.00 shipped

This 34" long female Tessera is from a Tessera to Tessera pairing. Therefore, it is possible that she could be a homozygote (aka: Super-Form). When Super-Form Tesseras are bred to ANY other corn snake, 100% of the progeny will be Tesseras (plus whatever other mutations they commonly share but hide). This one is 50% possibly het for Amel and Caramel. She was brumated from November 4th last year to February 15, 2013. She is currently eating one frozen/thawed hopper to small adult mouse each week.
