Not a particularly rare morph (or specimen), but since some have asked me to feature younger snakes on Snake Of The Day, I decided to post this 2011 male Pewter toDAY. More adults will be featured in the coming DAYS and weeks, but here's a break from the norm, featuring a corn that's less than half-grown.

26" long, eating frozen/thawed large pinkies or small fuzzy mice. He has a great disposition and will eatcha outta mouse and home. :-)
