

Show & Tell

Cherry Amel corn snake with her eggs that she laid a week ago. The sire of this brood (pictured below) is a Super Salmon Snow, so the babies should be mostly (if completely) RF Amels that should have exceptionally deep reds (if my theory of stacking red with two red-modifying genes proves out)?