

Show & Tell

This adult High-white Reverse Okeetee female isn't the typical High-white. Orange markings set her apart from the classic Red and White members of this selectively-bred Amel morph. This one doesn't seem as white as most because there is so much yellow. See tomorrow's S.O.T.D. for the perfect High-white. The only gene mutation in this snake is Amel (unless the yellow borders are someDAY proven to be caused by a mutation?).
