

Show & Tell

A few years ago we bred a Kastanie to a Java (unproven genetics thus far) and this is one of the progeny. Some were not as pale as this one, but this one typifies the general coloration. Ongoing breeding trials will hopefully identify the inheritance of Java corns (first produced and named by a South African corn snake breeder).