

Show & Tell

Most of our Terrazzo stock is zero-generations away from the original founding stock found on a Florida Key (island). Therefore, most of our adult stock has the classic overall tan coloration with darker tan/brown markings (vs. red in both color zones in most JMG Terrazzos). The original target look for the Terrazzos (formerly called Granite Corns) was to have the least amount of striping, leaving mostly “tracks” of the darker color, not unlike the freckled pattern common to most Granite Stone. More than half of this Terrazzo lacks organized striping, making it closer to the target of a stripe-less corn with modest freckling.
