

Show & Tell

This BOYD LINE Terrazzo corn snake exhibits the colors and pattern of most of the originals of this line. The lower red markings and tan ground color zones are what we've come to expect from Boyd Terrazzos. Some have even less dorso-lateral striping than this one, rendering stereotypes of their original name, GRANITE, with virtually no pattern and lots of darker-colored stippling as you'd see in most Stone Granite. That original name, Granite, was re-assigned to the Diffused Anery morph.
