

Show & Tell

I would LOVE to tell you that this is one of our selectively-bred Okeetees, but we cheated. One of the parents of this beautiful snake was a Tessera, and as many of you are learning, for some reason the Tessera mutation has amazing impacts on even the non-Tessera siblings of Tesseras. We don't know why this is happening (for the first time in corn snake herpetoculture) but it's the norm much more than the exception.
