

Show & Tell

Some of you will recall the SOTD feature on April 7, 2018, showing a sub-adult Variable Kingsnake (Lampropeltis thayeri) that had been hiding in the main snake building for several months. He/she was recovered in April via getting hopelessly stuck to a Masking Tape Trap I had set for another loose snake (see PIC 2 toDAY). A few scales were pulled off in the tape removal process, but I can't even find those places now, after a couple of sheds. . . .
