

The Snake-of-the-Day headliner of this web site features photographs that we believe will interest our web site visitors. Each daily photograph will be posted at 11:00 am. central (GMT - 5) and replaced in 24 hours. Feel free to make suggestions regarding what snake photographs you would like to see in this daily feature. The animals pictured here are not for sale, unless otherwise noted, but you can find available surplus snakes for sale on the Surplus Page of this web site. We appreciate your patronage and welcome any suggestions you may have.

This lil Tessera should be named RUDOLF for the cute red tail tip. Okay, okay. In corn snake jargin, Reverse Rudolph since it's red on the south end of the snake. Haven't yet checked to see if it's a HE or a SHE, but after it sheds in a few DAYS, I'll see if the name will be gender-appropriate (presuming that Rudolf the red-nosed reindeer actually was a HE)? Regardless of tail or name, it's a brightly-colored Tessera. Look what a significant meal the yolk is? It's one DAY old in this pic and it looks as if it just wolfed down a large pinky mouse.
