

The Snake-of-the-Day headliner of this web site features photographs that we believe will interest our web site visitors. Each daily photograph will be posted at 11:00 am. central (GMT - 5) and replaced in 24 hours. Feel free to make suggestions regarding what snake photographs you would like to see in this daily feature. The animals pictured here are not for sale, unless otherwise noted, but you can find available surplus snakes for sale on the Surplus Page of this web site. We appreciate your patronage and welcome any suggestions you may have.

I suspect most of you out there are growing tired of seeing hatchling corns, but it's the newest and potentially most interesting camera fodder this time of year. Taking all the photo ops I can while they're fresh. This group I showed you a few DAYS ago before they had shed. They are from a Tessera x Tessera pairing and both were obviously het for Striped Anery. Looks like the pale Anery in the center of this pile (left image) is a Striped Ghost Tessera. Again pic'd in the right image). It's possible that some of these could be Tessera Homozygote (aka: Super Form) mutants?
