

Show & Tell

2012 and 2014 Lavender Tesseras. We only hatched three this year (all males) and they all have as much or more broken dorsal striping as this hatchling exhibits. When mature, the 2014s will likely be nearly as pale as this adult that was produced by Terri Bienkowski two years ago. Thanks, Terri. This small adult has never bred so it is not a parent of the hatchling. Bonus Pic . . .
