

Show & Tell

Breaking up the monotony a little, toDAY's SNAKE of the DAY is not a snake. When I was watering plants on the deck two DAYs ago, I was surprised to see this hatchling Albino Green Anole. Other than the usual mammalian predators around here, RoadRunner birds stop in the yard often to gobble up my precious garden pets. They won't get this one. Here he/she is perched on my pinky finger. BONUS PICS . . .
