

Show & Tell

Okay, I know. ANOTHER non-snake, but this one just might gross ya out? Back in 2010 I looked up when I was under our arbor to see this “poor” caterpillar navigating one of the big cedar beams. I sent these pictures to www.whatsthatbug.com and they responded to my query about identification.

<https://www.whatsthatbug.com/2010/04/28/double-mystery-possibly-underwing-caterpillar-with-unknown-passengers-syrphid-larvae> If you guessed that I’m bored-while awaiting the second wave of 2016 corn eggs to hatch-you’d be right, but if you love corn snakes, you probably at least have a curiosity about other forms of life. I know I do.