

The Snake-of-the-Day headliner of this web site features photographs that we believe will interest our web site visitors. Each daily photograph will be posted at 11:00 am. central (GMT - 5) and replaced in 24 hours. Feel free to make suggestions regarding what snake photographs you would like to see in this daily feature. The animals pictured here are not for sale, unless otherwise noted, but you can find available surplus snakes for sale on the Surplus Page of this web site. We appreciate your patronage and welcome any suggestions you may have.

Another busily marked 2013 Tesseract (two camera angles of the same snake) from the pairing of a Tesseract (Het Amel) to a Candy Cane, but this one is a male. Of course, he is also Het for the Amel mutation. The stomach bulge corresponds to a plump pinky mouse he ate an hour before these images were made. Barely visible in these images is an amazing polka dot pattern on the tail.
