This 46" female Tessera has been out of brumation now for four weeks. She was actually captured loose in the hibernaculum when several containers that were stacked too high toppled over. She obviously eats adult frozen/thawed mice, and I estimate her age to be around five years old? I could not discern which Tessera she was so I'm selling her at a reduced price (I cannot say what she may be het for-if anything). Her $265.00 price includes $old
