

Show & Tell

OUT FOR 2015

Next week, we will list the 2015 Blue Motley corns (aka: Anery Dilute Motleys). Male adult shown above and female below demonstrate how the hatchlings should look in a year or two of maturity. Most of them have fragments of striping mixed with otherwise typical Motley markings, the result of both parents being het for Stripe. Few (if any) lack those partial striped or segments of connected markings. Female pic . . .