

Show & Tell

Leucistic Gray-banded Kingsnakes (Lampropeltis alterna) at two years of age. While some of them maintain a blush of orange as adults, this one will be extremely white when mature. The mode of inheritance being dominant to wild-type, the het form of this mutation demonstrates an amazingly hypo-esque phenotype.