

Show & $ell

{product id=1976}

This 2018 male corn is the product of crossing a Specter corn with a Coral Ghost corn. He is currently 10" long, eating frozen/thawed pinky mice. We still don't know exactly what makes Specter corns look the way they do, there are two general schools of thought, regarding the decision, "should I get a purely Specter corn or an out-cross?". The former has the potential of getting a potentially in-bred snake and the latter poses the potential to get Specter corns with diversified ancestry—from similarly colored genes? PIC 3 shows the Specter sire of toDAY's featured Specter outcross. His $215.00 USD price includes BONUS PIC . . .