

Show & Tell

These eggs began hatching the DAY after I left for the NRBE in Daytona Beach earlier this week. I came home this evening to see these Scaleless Corns slithering around, just begging to be photographed. Readily identifiable are Caramel and Common-colored Scaleless corns. After they have fed a few times they will be featured for sale on this web site and on the South Mountain Reptiles FaceBook page. S