

Show & Tell

These Sunglow Motleys have not shed their first skins yet, but like all corns, they have several transitional colors in their lives. Therefore, these will transform from this dull orange coloration to red/orange when mature. Barely seen in this picture is the one Striped Motley Sunglow I get each year from the parents of these gems that are obviously het for Stripe.