

Adult Scaleless Anery Corn Snake. This is the father of the hatchling Scaleless Anery that was featured about two weeks ago on this web site.

Note the random scale pattern segments on the sides near the tail, running nearly to the middle of the body. His belly is mostly scaled and he also has some scales around his "lips" and in the jaw zone behind his eyes. Special thanks to Stephane Rosselle in France for supplying us with this amazing snake, and also to Richard Dijoux at <https://www.colubiasnakes.fr> in France for discovering the first Scaleless corns.
