toDAY's SNAKE of the DAY (Sun. Nov 11, 2012)

#111112

Comon corn Het Caramel PLUS

Male

d.o.h. 2010

42" long on Nov. 9, 2012

Eating frozen/thawed adult mice

$125.00 shipped

This 2010 male common corn is largely unidentified. I recall that he is het for Caramel but because his ID label was lost in brumation last year, I don't recall exactly what other mutations he possesses. It is inconceivable even to me that I would keep a male common corn that was only het for Caramel, so this one is surely het for other mutations. Were I to guess, I'd say he's probably at least for Stripe and Bloodred and I recall breeding Pied-sided Bloodred to Butter about the time this one hatched. Obviously, the shipped price of this one ($125.00) demonstrates my concern for not over-pricing a snake when its genetics are in question. With shipping for a snake this size costing at least $57.00, he bears the price of a Common Corn Snake.

The U.S. Dollar bill in the picture is for size and color comparison. Every computer monitor renders different colors so we put this slightly used dollar bill in the picture so you can hold one next to your computer to assess the color of the snake.

This snake is in good health (not under or over-weight, no parasites or diseases that we are aware, no injuries or defects, and routinely feeding on unaltered frozen/thawed mice).

If we have noticed that the snake listed has any temperament or behavioral issues other than human-friendly, it will be detailed in Comments above.
