

A relatively dark-colored example of the mutation compound, Lava Terrazzo. This one is a small adult, so its colors will change a little more through maturity.